> Press Freedom, A Public Freedom By Albert Blank

Philadelphia (Pa.) Evening and Sunday Bulletin

HE week of October 8 to 14 is being observed as ▲ Newspaper Week in communities throughout the nation. Anyone who reflects on the role of modern newspapers in today's society is reminded anew how wise were those men who wrote into the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution the guarantee of a free press. Thomas Jefferson once said he would prefer to live in a country with newspapers but without a government rather than a country with a government but no newspapers. "No experiment can be more interesting than what we are now trying," he wrote on another occasion, "and which we trust will end in establishing the fact that man may be governed by reason and truth. Our first object, therefore, should be to leave open to him all the avenues of truth.

"How do you go about giving the citizen a clear shot down the avenue of truth? "The most effectual (method) hitherto found," said Jefferson, "is freedom of the press." It still is. Newspapermen throughout the English-speaking world are well aware of Edmund Burke, who first referred to them as the Fourth Estate, 200 years ago in the British House of Commons. "In this Parliament," said Edmund Burke, "are three estates: The Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons. But, in the Reporter's Gallery, yonder sits a Fourth Estate, more important

"What then remains?," he asked Parliament. was in a notable minority --but People getting a social 9-digit social security num- "Only the liberty of the Press, which no influence, no power, no minister, no government, which nothing but the depravity or corruption of a jury can ever destroy. It will be the nation's most awful moment, it will be the first grasp of tyranny, and how pregnant is the example. What remains if the public press is extinguished, the people enslaved, and the

"As an advocate of society, of peace and of liberty, I conjure you to guard the liberty of the press the great sentinel of the state, the grand detector of public imposture. Guard it and cherish it, because whenever it ceases to flourish, there will die with it the liberty of the people and the security of the

To benefit from a good press, the public should zealously defend press freedom even when it hurts. Freedom of the press is not a press freedom but a public freedom, a public possession and right, and in many ways the public's stoutest weapon. To deserve its freedom, the press should strive to be full, fair and factual. But a free people does not leave it to the government to decide what is full, fair and factual.

The greatest strength of a free press is not points of similarity, but in the points of difference. In the production of news every step involves the conscious intervention of some news-gatherer, and two accounts of the same event will never be the same. The threat to the liberties of the individual is always possible. External vigilance on the part of the public is essential, and that is why once a year Newspaper Week seeks to focus attention on Freedom of Expression — a priceless heritage bought with blood and tears over many years.

The political, economic and individual freedoms of the American people can be preserved only if the public is aware of the facts which bear on current issues. This is where newspapers, especially community newspapers, serve a unique function. We provide the "grassroots" reaction to events taking place in the state and the nation. We serve as a unique two-way communication medium between the people at home and their elected representatives. This community newspaper provides the most com plete local coverage of social, sports, educational and other news events in more detail than any other medium.

FHA PROGRAMS ARE SCHEDULED

The FHA officers would like to invite all members to our meetings. We have an outline of each meeting below.

Our national objective is to strengthen bonds within the family and between the family and between the family and community.

On September 27, 1972, at 11:29 a.m. the FHA held its first meeting. The fittle of our program was "The Responsibilities of Parenthood." Our guest speakers were Mrs. G.L. Collier, discussing the financial responsibilities of parenthood; and Rev. Terry Gunnells discussing the emotional responsibilities of parenthood.

Our project for November 12, 1972, at the Elba Chapter is "Our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your our purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your purpor unit purpose is to emphasize the importance of using your purpor unit purpor
